

Windows® 7 Upgrade Program

In the Windows® 7 Upgrade Program, customers who have purchased eligible workstations between June 26, 2009 and January 31, 2010, will have the option to upgrade to Windows® 7. The planned fulfillment dates are from Windows® 7 general availability, currently planned for October 2009 through April 30, 2010.

Looking for a new PC?

So you want a new PC and you want Windows® 7? No problem. Microsoft has worked with PC manufacturers to help you protect your PC investment. Most PC manufacturers are offering selected PCs that qualify for the Windows® 7 Upgrade Option.* Buy a qualifying PC today, then follow the manufacturer's instructions to get the software upgrade. Prices and delivery methods will vary. Call your Solbrekk account executive to get more information.

Love your current PC?

Are you happy with the PC you have, but haven't updated its operating system to Windows® Vista yet? There's never been a better time. With the Windows® 7 Upgrade Option, you can get the benefits of Windows® Vista today, and be ready for Windows® 7 when it's ready. Make sure your PC is ready for Windows® Vista by downloading and running the Windows® Vista Upgrade Advisor. Purchase a qualifying version* of a Windows® Vista retail packaged product between June 26, 2009 and January 31, 2010 and order the upgrade option.

*Essential details: When you buy Windows® Vista Business, Ultimate, or Home Premium either as a packaged product or on a qualifying PC you can get a comparable upgrade version of Windows® 7 after it's generally available on October 22, 2009. Qualifying PCs, offer details, and product delivery methods will vary by manufacturer, so check their sites for specifics. If you buy a packaged copy of Windows® Vista you can order your upgrade from Microsoft. The Windows® 7 Upgrade Option program runs from June 26, 2009 through January 31, 2010. However, individual PC manufacturers may choose to offer the option for a shorter period.
